8 Buildings

450 Students, Kindergarten – 8th Grade
Architect: Good, Fulton and Farrell

Profile

Led long-term development of a campus environment that supports a growing, high quality, independent school program. Served as thread of continuity for the school and church over two decades of new and renovated buildings, working with five rectors, three school heads, two facility directors, multiple board presidents, and vestry leaders.

Good Shepherd Episcopal School is an ISAS (Independent Schools of the Southwest) accredited school in north Dallas, known as one of the top quality feeder schools to top private high schools throughout the greater Dallas area. It shares a campus with Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd which founded the school.

The Project

The long term capital program consisted of six major building projects including a gymnasium, middle school, lower school, performing arts center, library; also included kindergarten, administration, and chapel renovations. In the same period, there were three master plans and re-zonings, a major parking facility development, and annual summer repair programs; all managed by Building Solutions.

The most recent project is master planning the integration and coordination of church and school uses of the shared campus, as a strategy for better stewardship and increased utilization of limited land resources. This reconceptualization of the facilities as a single consolidated element is coupled with exploration of opportunities to share uses with a neighboring YMCA.

Services

Building Solutions leadership has been the project manager on every major project since 1983, assisting in selecting the campus architect at the beginning of the program, managing zoning cases, master planning and individual project design, contractor selection, and construction. As a pioneer in sustainable facilities, Good Shepherd received LEED Gold certification of Center for Creative Learning, a “first” among libraries of peer schools.
